RIDING TO SUPPORT VETERANS AND ASSIST CHARITIES

More than 2,000 American Legion Rider chapters, organized by local American Legion posts and departments worldwide, ride in support of America's future. Legion Riders actively support American Legion programs in every state and in several countries overseas.

One of The American Legion's fastest growing and most highly visible activities, Legion Riders ride for the community, state and nation.

The Riders annually travel to the Legion's national convention while collecting donations that go toward The American Legion Legacy Fund. The fund awards scholarships to the children of fallen servicemen and women who died on active duty since Sept. 11, 2001. The fund also provides scholarship money for children of 9/11 veterans who have a VA disability rating of 50 percent or greater.

Riders, along with Legion posts and departments, Auxiliary units, Sons squadrons and private donations, have raised more than $11 million for the Legacy Fund. Annual amounts have reached $1 million.

- Riders participate in countless local fundraisers for charitable organizations such as childrens hospitals, cancer camps and toy runs for children.
- Riders provide escorts for military flights carrying our servicemen and women home to their communities and loved ones.
- American Legion Rider Honor Guards and ceremonial teams protect the sanctity of veterans' funerals and stand flag lines at memorial services.
- Riders teach motorcycle skills and driver safety in the community, on military installations and in our schools.
